Virtual public information session scheduled to consider elementary boundaries in northeast Baltimore County

Public may participate online

What: The Northeast Area Elementary Boundary Study Committee will host a public information session to provide information and gather feedback about boundary options and the study process. The virtual meeting will include an explanation of the process, a presentation of data, and a question-and-answer period.

The committee has been charged with creating new attendance boundaries for the new northeast elementary school and a new, larger Red House Run Elementary School. Eight schools that may be affected by the new schools are included in the study: Elmwood, Fullerton, Joppa View, McCormick, Perry Hall, Red House Run, Shady Spring, and Vincent Farm elementary schools.

When: Wednesday, November 3, from 7 – 8 p.m.

How: The public information session will be held virtually; those wishing to attend the online meeting may use this link. More information about the study and committee meetings may be found at the boundary study website.

Following meetings through December by the committee and the public information session, a recommendation will be presented in March 2022 to the Board of Education of Baltimore County for a decision.
