BCPS teachers and students to perform a free, live concert at Dulaney High School

Concert to feature holiday music and other winter themed pieces

What: The Hunt Valley Wind Ensemble, whose members include Baltimore County Public Schools' teachers and students, will perform a free, live concert of holiday and winter-themed music. The ensemble's head director is Matthew T. Benner, a band director at Dulaney High School. Ensemble members include Nancy N. Paulis, a retired BCPS vocal teacher; Jenn Moss, a vocal music teacher at Seven Oaks Elementary School; Claire Barnaby, a Grade 6 world history teacher at Golden Ring Middle School; and Dylan Cavolo and Ashley Reedholm, Cockeysville Middle School students.

When: Saturday, December 11, at 3 p.m. (masks required)

Where: Dulaney High School, 255 E. Padonia Road, Timonium 21093

Background: The Hunt Valley Wind Ensemble was founded in 2016 by Jenn Ambrosiano-Reedholm to provide the opportunity for adults to play challenging band repertoire and provide concerts to the local community. Anyone interested in joining can reach the ensemble through its website. No auditions are required. The all-volunteer community band is a program of the Cockeysville Recreation Council and is based at Dulaney High School.
